Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the specification appears to be a direct translation from a foreign application. The specification contains numerous grammatical errors. For example, on page 1, lines 4 and 5, the language “where it folded up” is inapt; lines 8-10, the language “joined in the state which the center piece of puzzle sheet already clipped” is inapt.

On page 5, lines 21, the reference to the claims is improper and should be deleted.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 and 4/1 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Polsky (5,445,380) in view of Pistorius (2,012,400). Regarding claim 1, Polsky discloses a folding picture puzzle comprising a plurality of score lines joining pieces that are folded to provide a drawing. The score lines comprise fold lines and cut lines. However, Polsky lacks the teaching for the cut lines to comprise a perforated line.

Pistorius reveals a folded toy comprising a plurality of fold lines (8-12). Pistorius also provides lines that may be perforated, dotted cut lines or actual cut slits. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to replace the cut lines of Polsky with a perforated line in order to allow the user to perform the cut and facilitate that cutting along the line.

Regarding claim 4, Polsky discloses various sized puzzle bodies for folding to form a particular design. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the puzzle body of Polsky as a 3x3 body in order to simplify the construction of the puzzle.

4. Claims 2, 4/2 and 5/2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matos (5,735,520) in view of Pistorius (2,012,400). Matos reveals a folding puzzle construction including a puzzle body (note Figures 2a-2f) having a plurality of score lines and a hole in the middle of the body. The pieces are folded about the score lines to provide a particular drawing or design. Figures 2a, 2b, 2c, 2e and 2f of Matos disclose cut lines to assist in the folding of the center part of the puzzle body. Figure 2d of Matos discloses the center part being completely removed from the puzzle body.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the puzzle body of Matos with the center part having perforated cut lines in order to permit its removal from the puzzle body as shown by Figure 2d of Matos.

Regarding claim 4, Matos provides lines that extend both horizontally and longitudinally.

Regarding claim 5, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a different description on the center part of the puzzle body of Matos in order to indicate to the user that this piece is intended to be removed.

5. Claims 3, 4/3 and 5/3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matos (5,735,520) in view of Pistorius (2,012,400) and Polsky (5,445,380). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the puzzle body of Matos as modified above by Pistorius with a perforated line in the outer circumferential part of the puzzle body in order to permit the puzzle body to be folded in an alternative way to form a particular design.

Art Unit: 3711

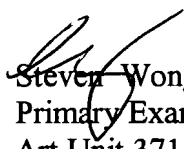

Regarding claims 4 and 5, note the rejections of claims 4 and 5 over the combination of Matos in view of Pistorius.
